Quotation of the week

'If you fell down yesterday stand up today'
HG Wells

One thing the pandemic has taught us is how resilient many of our young people are. When life is difficult and causes us to fall over then, as HG Wells tells us 'get back up again'. Of course this is not always easy and when life is especially difficult we may need help especially if we have experienced traumatic events, bereavement or are feeling mentally unwell. If that is your child, then school is here to help them. We have many staff trained in what is called mental health first aid and who can provide a listening ear. If your son/daughter is feeling overwhelmed at the moment please ask them to let a member of staff know or make contact with us directly and we shall do what we can to help.

Diversity and inclusion

This week has seen the third annual Stephen Lawrence Day. Stephen Lawrence was murdered by a group of white racists and his family had to struggle for many years to try to get the police to bring his murderers to justice. It led to the MacPherson Report which declared that the Metropolitan Police was institutionally racist. We saw earlier in the week the guilty verdict on the white police officer who murdered George Floyd last summer and this morning in the news the historian David Olusoga was speaking about the discrimination evident in the different burial arrangements for white and black soldiers who fought for Britain in WW1. There is, it appears, a greater willingness to face up to the injustices both of the past and those that remain today and we are part of this process in school reviewing our curriculum, seeking to ensure that what we teach reflects the diversity of our community and that we encourage all our young people to question traditional narratives or ways of looking at such things as British history. This is an important journey for all of us.

Webinars

Yesterday I was pleased to take part in two webinars. The first was organised by the borough and was a chance for parents to ask questions of a panel that included public health officials from the borough as well as both a primary and a secondary headteacher. We were asked questions including 'when will face masks no longer be required in schools?' The answer to that question is that we are required to wear them at least until May 17th when the next review of covid practices will be made by the government.

The second webinar was organised by Clare College, University of Cambridge and involved a panel of guests from education, the arts and business. We each spoke about what we have learned from covid in terms of leadership and the future. It was interesting to hear about the different perspectives of other leaders. In terms of education we will be continuing to make use of technology such as google meets which allows us to provide remote learning and to hold virtual meetings. This is really useful and an excellent way of providing students with resources and additional help and support. We also, I believe, have developed a greater understanding of mental health issues and how we can best support children, young people and staff who may be struggling with their mental health.

Poetry club and readings

Mrs Lloyd, our Learning Resource Centre Manager, launched a poetry club for upper site students this week and students heard readings of a range of poems from three members of staff. In future weeks they will be producing their own poetry and we look forward to reading and hearing what they come up with.

Virtual pilgrimage

Over 1400 miles were walked on our virtual pilgrimage and over £600 was raised in sponsorship towards the HCPT. This will be really beneficial to the charity that takes disabled people on pilgrimages to Lourdes every Easter. Hopefully these activities will be able to take place again next Easter.

Testing for covid

Please continue to carry out the lateral flow tests at home and report the results of these tests. While cases continue to fall we cannot be complacent and it is really important that we continue to test ourselves regularly. Although cases in Waltham Forest are below the London average the level of infection at the moment is still greater than it was in July 2020 so we must carry on doing what we can to limit the risks. I was pleased to receive my second dose of the Astra-Zeneca vaccination this week.

Yr 11 tests

Yr 11 tests begin next week. Students have been well prepared for these tests. They will have a bearing on final judgements about students' grades but we will be taking a wide range of other data into account as well. Students must simply aim to do their best in the tests, that is all we can ask.

Parents' surgery

Parents' surgery is currently a remote service. If you would like to speak to me please contact the office on either site and they will let me know that you would like me to call you on Thursday afternoon between 4pm and 5pm. You can also email me directly at anytime on a.stone@hollyfamily.waltham.sch.uk

With best wishes,

COMMENDATIONS

This week we have commendations for the following students:

First from Mr Sayer for Mary Giwa. This is for her outstanding contributions in class discussions, challenging peers to think on levels far beyond what most people think is possible for a 14 year old.

Second, from Mrs Sheikh Omar for Ryan Hanley-Greenway. Ryan always tries to do his best in French classes. His focus and determination is really admirable. He is not afraid to get things wrong in the lesson and he continues to better himself every time.

Well done to both of them!

Happy Easter!

Yes, we are still in the season of Easter and will continue until we celebrate the coming of the Holy Spirit on Pentecost Sunday, 23 May. Fifty days to celebrate the joy of the resurrection, and we should not let this pass us by.

Thursday 22 April is Earth Day, a celebration of the planet we live on as well as an opportunity to talk about climate change action.

As we see the beauty of spring all around, let us consider Pope Francis' words on Earth Day: "In this Easter season of renewal, let us pledge to love and esteem the beautiful gift of the earth, our common home, and to care for all members of our human family. Like the brothers and sisters that we are, let us together implore our heavenly Father: "Send forth your Spirit, O Lord, and renew the face of the earth" (cf. Ps 104:30)

Stay safe, Mrs Grierson, Chaplain

Friday 23 April is St George's Day, the Patron saint of England and our local parish, Our Lady & St George. St George is also the Patron saint of Georgia, Portugal, Beirut, Malta, Palestinian Christians, skin disease sufferers and the Scouts.

Very little is known about the life of St George. It is believed he was born into a Greek Christian noble family. He became a soldier in the army of Emperor Diocletian. In 302, Diocletian called for all Christian soldiers to be arrested. George, with great courage, stood up to the Emperor and told him that what he was doing was wrong. George was tortured and beheaded.

St George was a martyr, someone who died for their faith, the readings on his feast day reflect this. Psalm 126 says, "Those who sow with tears will reap with songs of joy." Are we prepared to do something we might find hard in order to help our neighbours?

St George is often associated with killing a dragon, which may represent fighting against injustice.

Saint George,
With courage, you stood up to those in power, to tell them that what they were doing was wrong.
Pray that we, too, may have courage to stand up for what is right, with God's help.
You were not ashamed of your faith.
Pray that we, too, may be proud of our faith, and may cheerfully show the love of Jesus in all that we do.
St George, pray for us.
Amen (CAFOD)

This Sunday, the fourth Sunday of Easter, is known as Vocations Sunday or Good Shepherd Sunday, and is marked as the World Day of Prayer for Vocations.

The purpose of this day is to fulfil Jesus' instruction to "Pray the Lord of the harvest to send labourers into his harvest" (Matthew 9:38). While appreciating all vocations, the Church concentrates her attention on raising up shepherds for God's people – vocations to Holy Orders and to the religious life – while encouraging all who are discerning their vocation to pray more earnestly that they may hear and respond to God's call.

Student of the week:

Asia Quidley for always trying her best in all she does, and being an all-round lovely student.

Congratulations!

Congratulations to the following students on stars received last week:

Kieran Hanley Greenway from Geography for great answers and contribution in lessons.

Faith Owusu, Temi Balogun, Cleopatra Acheampong, Janell Dowe for all completing an impossible task in History!

Study Tips:

The biggest study tip we would recommend to anyone is to create a realistic study timetable. This should include when you do your homework and extra study. Please make sure your timetable is realistic to you and your life. For example, you shouldn't have 4 hours of maths scheduled in for one night. Short periods with regular breaks are more affective. There will be a template study timetable given out by your form teachers this week.

CLASSROOM CONSCIOUSNESS

Amelia Szwedo-Bielicki – Year 10

We have all heard of Medusa, the terrifying gorgon with snakes instead of hair, and a glare that instantly turns people into stone. What people tend to shy away from is the start of her story, when she was a priestess of the goddess Athena, and the events that led to her transformation. There are many variations of her story, but I would like to focus on the retelling by the poet Ovid. In this version Medusa was a beautiful woman who caught the attention of Poseidon, god of the sea. Following his infatuation, he tried to have his way with her and after Medusa's refusal, he forcefully took advantage. All of this took place in Athena's temple, infuriating the goddess. In her wrath, Athena decided to punish Medusa, but she could not do anything to such a powerful deity as Poseidon. There are many different interpretations of this part of the story, as it doesn't seem to make sense that Athena punished the victim. Some argue that since Athena was literally born of Zeus' head, she believed in a patriarchal system and therefore acted in this way. Others argue that it was a blessing hidden in a punishment, that Athena decided to turn Medusa into a gorgon so that she would never feel powerless again. At the end of her story, Medusa was beheaded by the hero Perseus, and her head was used as a weapon to inflict fear on the Aegis. Like most Greek tales, this story is extremely cruel and twisted, but what I wish to express here is just how easily people tend to judge her as the monster, without even discovering her story. In fact, her death is probably the most glorified and well known. Many don't seem to see past her appearance, and they assume that since she is a gorgon, she must immediately be the villain. Although we have grown as a society, I think that it is important to keep this story in mind, even if it's a fictional tale. We can always learn from stories like this one. So next time you see someone, don't be quick to judge, give them a chance to tell their own story, because you never really know what they may have gone through.

SCHOOL OFFICE - MANY THANKS

When did you last take the time to say
THANK YOU?

Thank you so much for everything. You've been there for me through thick and thin and I'm so thankful for that. I will miss you so much I don't know what I would do without you.

Thank you for everything you have done for me. I will miss you loads when I leave and I don't think I would have done as well as I did if I didn't have you as a teacher.

Go to www.thankateacher.co.uk to send your favourite teacher a thank you message.

We will send them a personalised e-card for FREE and they may have the opportunity to be nominated for a Pearson National Teaching Award.

Please THANK A TEACHER today. It's simple, it's free, and it will make their day.
